Bian Zhongyun, a communist party member and the vice-principal of a secondary school was tortured to death on August 5th, 1966. She was believed to be the first victim among the teachers killed at the hands of their students during the "Red August" of 1966 as the Cultural Revolution began in mainland China. The film depicts the event and demonstrates how the family members and colleagues of Bian experienced the terror.

Hu Jie (胡杰) is an award-winning documentary filmmaker. His works include Remote Mountain (遠山), Women Matchmaker (媒婆), The Folk Song on the Plain (平原上的山歌) and Songs from Maidichong (麥地沖的歌聲). Though I Am Gone (我雖死去) won the Champion at the 1st Chinese Documentary Festival.
