

DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY
School of Humanities · The University of Hong Kong

The Department of History is proud to introduce
French Ciné Club
by Dr. François Drémeaux

FIRST SCREENING
Régis Wargnier's
INDOCHINE

6:00pm, 12 October
CPD 4.34, Run Run Shaw Tower

The Department of History invites you to a series of movie screenings related to the course HIST2108 Empire and the Making of Modern France, taught by Dr. François Drémeaux.

On 12 October at 6:00pm the series will commence with one of the most famous movies about the French colonial era: Indochine (1992). The story is set in 1930, in French Indochina. A widowed French woman who owns a rubber plantation raises a Vietnamese princess as her own daughter. When they both fall in love with a young French naval officer, their lives change irrevocably.

Screening in French with English subtitles
All are welcome; no registration required

The Department of History is proud to introduce French Ciné Club, by Dr. François Drémeaux.

First screening - Régis Wargnier's 'Indochine,' 6:00pm, 12 October, Run Run Shaw Tower, CPD 4.34.

The Department of History invites you to a series of movie screenings related to the course HIST2108 Empire and the Making of Modern France, taught by Dr. François Drémeaux.

On 12 October at 6:00pm the series will commence with one of the most famous movies about the French colonial era: Indochine (1992). The story is set in 1930, in French Indochina. A widowed French woman who owns a rubber plantation raises a Vietnamese princess as her own daughter. When they both fall in love with a young French naval officer, their lives change irrevocably.

All welcome - no registration
Screening in French with English subtitles