Public Screening: American Graffiti (George Lucas, 1973)

The Department of Music wishes to invite all to join in our weekly screenings of selected classic films, which will showcase music designed to add gripping features to the art of visual storytelling. We would like to promote the idea that sounds are integral to the audience's cinema experience. By showing films of different genres each week, we hope you take a tour with us to explore more about the classics.

This week, we are delighted to present a comedy-drama American Graffiti , which features the coming of age of four high school graduates on their last summer night before college. Set in Modesto, California in 1962, the film vividly depicts the cruising and rock and roll cultures prevailed among the baby-boom generation. What happened that night? What would tomorrow hold? Come and join us in the teenagers' overnight adventures!

No registration, just walk in, sit down and enjoy!
